Performance Spotlight

Measure: Number of dogs returned to owners in the field by wardens

Program: Safety

About this measure		Why it is important
This measure tracks the number of dogs returned to their owners in the field.		Research demonstrates that 33.4% Franklin County Residents struggle financially. Communities with concentrated poverty are denied easy access to transportation. By returning dogs to their owners before they get to the shelter, owners are not burdened with finding transportation or the necessary money to pay redemption fees.
What is being done
Wardens are dedicated to increasing redemptions to owners in the field in accordance with Rise Together: A Blueprint for Reducing Poverty in Franklin County. Deputies scan microchip found dogs, look up license numbers, and speak to the community in order to find information on the dog's owners. Once the dog's owners are located, deputies make attempt to contact the owners and return the dog to the owner's home. All community members are being educated about the importance of licensing and microchipping their pets, as well as the spay/neuter services provided by the Shelter. By taking these steps to reunite lost animals with their families without financial or logistical burden of redeeming their dog at the Shelter, community members adversely impacted by poverty are given a greater chance for future success.

Vacancy Credit

The vacancy credit process is designed to more accurately reflect the true expenditures for Personal Services and Fringe Benefits within the agency budget request. The calculations for the budget process begin with funding all approved positions for the entire year. Vacancy credits take into account that not all approved positions will be filled for the entire year. The methodology historically used by OMB to estimate an agency's vacancy credit utilizes a four-year history of unused personnel budgets to estimate an appropriate vacancy credit. However, vacancy credits may vary from the four-year average due to staffing trends or the number of positions supported within a fund.
